Under sunny skies that smiled in happy welcome to the tourists from many lands who have come to see Hawaii's winter carnival, the ninth annual Floral Parade took place this afternoon.

Not all the records in the world were broken at the harbor swimming races this morning. Some were broken and some new ones got this afternoon. Hawaii's wonderful cosmopolitan people, joined together in the spirit of carnival and of showing to the world what Hawaii has to offer the visitor, came united to the front with a long line of entries representing the thought and work of many races.
Long streets lined with applauding thousands a pageant of glorious color and brilliant device wound its way, and a new triumph in parades was recorded.

Director-general Dougherty and his loyal associates scored this afternoon the most signal of their many successes of the 1914 Carnival season.

The parade started promptly at 2:30 o'clock from Aala park. For two hours previous floats, autos, mounted and foot sections had been assembling at the park and on every street leading out from it to the King street parade route.

The streets along Nuuanu stream were alive with a great mass of clashing, harmonizing, contrasting colors, and it seemed like an inextricable confusion. But Major Ernest V.
Smith, parade marshal, and his aides, civilian and military, had laid their plans well and the long procession got into one unbroken line with not half of the confusion that might have been expected.

Glitter Is Kaleidoscopic

Never has such a parade been seen here. Never has such a beautiful kaleidoscope of countless colors moving on floats and automobiles, on horseback and afoot been witnessed in this city. At least 25,000 cheering spectators will speak to attest to this truth.
Passing along the streets by the grandstand in the Palace square, the paraders left a roar of applause in their wake.

There were floats of every description, entered by business firms, by associations, by civic organizations and by individuals, each perfect in its way, each distinctive and each worthy of the applause it received. Then there were automobiles, covered with flowers and ferns of many varieties, the bougainvillea, the Hawaiian air flower, the yellow huapala; and here a world of art, talent and care were shown. Nothing that can be written can describe them; they passed like a dream of beautiful things; almost too beautiful to be real.

The princesses of the five islands with their escorts, wearing the long peas or flowing skirts, mounted on spirited animals, came early in the parade. Beautiful it was to see them riding splendidly erect on their horses, a herald in advance carrying the banner of each island. Between each of the different divisions of this section of the parade two floats appeared.

Along the streets upon which the parade passed, the crowds assembled early, particularly along King street.
But no report was made of a disturbance; the crowd seemed in the best of temper, waiting quietly until the time set for the opening of the parade, when they hailed the approach of Director-general James D. Dougherty mounted on a prancing animal, with mighty cheers.

A Parade of All People

It was a parade of all people. The Japanese, the Chinese, the Koreans, the Canadians took prominent and

SPEED RECORDS MADE
IN STAR-BULLETIN'S
CARNIVAL EXTRA TODAY

The photographs of today's Carnival events in the regular and extra editions were made by the Kodagraph Shop, staff photographers for the Star-Bulletin, and to put the Carnival extra on the street at 5 o'clock today it was necessary to break several records, both in photography and photo-engraving.

With an experienced corps of photographers and news-gatherers and writers, with special messengers handling "copy" on rush schedule and with speed all around in the mechanical features of typesetting and makeup, the Carnival extra, with pictures of decorated cars and floats taken at 2:30 o'clock, when the parade started, was in the hands of the newsboys and being sold to hundreds upon hundreds of eager buyers at 5 o'clock.

The Kodagraph Company, which took the pictures, is unusually well equipped for handling rush work in the photo line and the engraving department of the Star-Bulletin, both in equipment and in skilled artists, helps to set new records for all Hawaii in speed of handling pictures and superiority of workmanship.

Peter Hendrickson, in falling on the sidewalk, near the intersection of King and Nuuanu streets this afternoon, received a cut over the eye that required treatment at the hospital.

A large design suspended over the office of the Honolulu Iron Works on Nuuanu street became detached and in dropping to the ground crashed into a large plate glass window.

ELKS WIN THE PRIZE

ACCIDENTS

Samuel McGinty, a colored soldier belonging to Company "E," 25th Infantry was removed from Nuuanu stream this afternoon as the Floral Parade was passing along King street.
McGinty is reported to have missed his footing on the rail of the bridge.
He received several injuries, which required medical attention. The parol took the trooper to the hospital.

N. Hockenberry, riding a bicycle in the bed of the Floral Parade's parade was thrown from his mount as a result of a collision with automobile number 1234. According to the story told the bicyclist by Hockenberry, the automobile came up behind him and the bicycle was wrecked in the collision.

Al Pong, a Chinese called in a central police station this afternoon and reported that two children, a boy and a girl, were a year and a half apart, strayed from a point where the parade were watching the Floral Parade.
Officers were given a description of the missing children.

Robert Brown, it is said, was the owner of a small dog which had not been found. The child was lost first of the Floral Parade was reported to the city today from Hawaii, and was found with a broken arm and was taken to the hospital for treatment.

Ed Ginn, father of a four-year-old girl, reported to the police station this afternoon that the child strayed from the line of march of the Floral Parade. Up to a late hour the little one

PRIZES

But one prize was offered by the Carnival Committee this year in connection with the Floral Parade. This was a handsome cup awarded to the best entry in the parade regardless of class. All entries, however, received souvenir pennants at the reviewing ground, Moiliili park.

Various merchandise prizes, however, were offered by the von Hamann Company and by the Seaman Carriage Co. for best decorated machines for which they are agents.
Each of these companies appointed two judges, and a fifth was selected by the judges themselves. The Floral Parade committee also accepted these prizes to award the one official trophy.

The judges were Gerrit P. Wilder, Mrs. Wallace R. Farrington, Capt. and Mrs. L. C. Scherer and Mrs. J. M.

The bloodthirsty Ad Club pirates almost led the parade, and in point of interest took a prominent part. Walking and riding and firing their guns, the pirates with their float-ship came behind Director-General James D.
Dougherty and Major Ernest V.
Smith. And behind the pirates came the marching bands of the Knights of Pythias.

Following this came the second section, led by the St. Louis band, and the Y. M. C. A. float, which represented cleverly a gymnasium; and following this float came the floats of the several schools, which ended with the one of the Japanese boy's club. The third section was made up of the Korean marching division. In the smart uniforms several score Koreans marched.

J. J. Dias appeared at the head of the princess section as chairman of the committee in charge of that feature of the parade. First came Hawaii, with Miss Wilhelmina Weight as princess, and her outriders and aides; then Maui, with Miss Louise Robinson as the princess with her outriders; then Molokai, Mrs. Ellen Jones-Smith as princess; Kauai next, Mrs. Lili-Keolu Kula as princess, and finally Oahu with Miss Marie Holt as princess. A herald rode in advance of each princess and her outriders.

The Reform School band left the first section of the third division, and after it came many horse drawn floats. Following these came the decorated automobiles, and the last of the parade was for bicycles and unattached motorcycles.

The paraders assembled at Aala Park and were assigned to different side streets until the march began.
Then they all swung out into King street, up King street to the Capitol grounds, passed the reviewing stand there, up Miller street to Beretania and down Beretania to Moiliili Park where they disbanded.

Among the many floats and decorated automobiles entered in the Floral Parade were:
